Information About The Sasebo VTF

The Sasebo Veterinary Treatment Facility is authorized to provide care for your privately owned pet(s) as time, space, personal resources permit. Care for privately owned animals is just one of the many missions we perform; therefore we cannot guarantee veterinary services will always be available.

There is an Army veterinarian that is stationed here that does provide services for privately owned animals. The primary mission of our Sasebo veterinarian is to provide medical care for the Military Working Dogs and to provide food inspection services for the base. Due to other obligations of our veterinarian, we do advise that you become familiar with the off base veterinary clinics. You will find a list of off-base veterinary clinics within this welcome packet.

This clinic is not equipped to perform surgical procedures or emergency services due to limited resources and staffing. If your pet requires surgery or emergency care please seek off-base assistance.

Our clinic can perform annual exams, vaccinations, health certificates, microchip implantations and general care for your pet.

If you have SOFA status, you are required to register your pet with this veterinary facility. Your pet is also required to be current on vaccinations and to have a microchip. This applies to pets living both on and off-base. Please remember to register any pets that you adopt during your time in Japan. Please contact us for further information on these requirements.

Be aware that Japanese law requires annual rabies vaccinations for all pets. Please keep your pet current on their vaccinations.

Please call or stop by if you have any questions.

Welcome to Sasebo!

Heartworm Disease: heartworms are large worms that live in the hearts of dogs. While the disease is more common in dogs, cats can also be affected by heartworm disease. Heartworms are transmitted by mosquitoes, causing all dogs (and cats that go outdoors) to be exposed to the disease. The infection can be life-threatening, and treatment can be expensive, painful, and time consuming. To prevent heartworm disease, we recommend all dogs (and cats who go outdoors) to be on a monthly heartworm prevention. Prevention is affordable and is given in a treat form once a month. Dogs require an initial heartworm test to ensure they have not been infected prior to starting the prevention, and then annual tests thereafter.

Heat Stress: summers in Sasebo are very hot and humid, and dogs can be at a high risk for heat injury from July through September. Risk factors for heat injury include age (very young and older dogs), breed (dogs with short noses, such as bulldogs, pugs, and boxers), and conditioning (overweight dogs, dogs not acclimated to high temperatures). To reduce the risk of heat injury, always provide fresh water to your pet. Provide shady areas in your yard to seek shelter, and do not leave your pet unattended in the yard during the hot summer days. Avoid exercising during the hot times of day and be cautious with the pavement temperature when walking your dog. Additionally, NEVER leave your pet unattended in a vehicle.

Venomous Snakes: Mamushi snakes are pit vipers with venom similar to water moccasins and rattle snakes from the United States. They are typically 1-3 feet long with a pale gray, reddish brown, or yellow brown background color with large, darker, irregularly shaped blotches along its length. It can be found in swamps, marshes, meadows, woodlands, and rocky areas. Yamakagushi snakes are dark green with black and bright orange markings and are usually 2-3 feet long. This snake frequently flees larger predators and bites are uncommon.

Insects: fleas and ticks are common in Japan and may be a significant issue for your pet depending on their lifestyle. Giant centipedes (mukade) can grow up to 20 cm long. Their stings can cause intense pain and swelling but are not life threatening unless there is an underlying allergy.

Feline Leukemia Virus (FeLV) and Feline Immunodeficiency Virus (FIV) (cats): these are viral diseases which are transmitted through contact with other cats, typically through fighting. Cats can be infected without showing clinical signs for months to years. Indoor cats have little exposure to these viruses, however cats that go outside have a higher exposure due to the high prevalence of the viruses in stray populations. For indoor cats, we recommend testing for FeLV/FIV once in their life, typically during kitten vaccines, to make sure they were not infected by their mothers. For indoor/outdoor cats, we recommend testing for FeLV/FIV annually and vaccinating for FeLV.

Pets and Emergency Evacuation from Japan – Critical Information

GENERAL INFORMATION:

- People always have priority – animals will not displace a person
- All SOFA personnel are required by their respective installation housing policies to have their pet microchipped.
- Abandoning a domestic pet on any USFJ installation or anywhere else in Japan is prohibited and is subject to UCMJ.
- For evacuation purposes, pets are defined as domestic dogs and cats only. All other large animals or pets such as fish, birds, ferrets, rodents, reptiles, amphibians, or spiders will not be evacuated and arrangements will need to be made prior to an evacuation order.
- Only 2 pets will be evacuated per service member.
- Pets owned by unaccompanied military service members remaining in Japan, or personnel who have more than 2 pets, must have a Pet Care Plan in the event that their pet(s) must be evacuated. The Pet Care Plan is a willful agreement between two parties to transfer ownership of a pet, special power of attorney, or the arrangement of a third party to ship a pet from Japan to a designated guardian.
- Pets may be temporarily housed during personnel processing at Assembly Points, Evacuation Control Centers, or Safe Havens and evacuated when time, space, and resources permit.
- Every attempt will be made to ensure pets will be evacuated with their owners, however if a separate evacuation is required for pets, the units in charge of evacuation will ensure feeding/watering/walking after owners' departure.

PRE-EVACUATION CHECKLIST:

- 1) EACH pet must have its own hard airline carrier that meets International Air Transport Association (IATA) standards. The carrier must be large enough for them to stand up with head fully up and ears erect, turn around and lay down. Pets cannot be combined into one carrier.
- 2) Emergency Evacuation Plan Binder
  - a. Rabies Certificate (DD2208) – 2 copies signed in blue
  - b. Veterinary Health Certificate (DD2209 or APHIS Form 7001) – 2 copies, prefilled out and without the veterinary signature
  - c. FAVN – original and current (valid for only 2 years from date of blood draw)
    - i. NOTE: The FAVN is required for you to return your animal to Japan without without quarantine time. The FAVN is only valid if the pet has not lapsed on its rabies vaccination.
  - d. Immunization record
  - e. Animal Evacuation Card – 2 pre-filled out cards (next page)
- 3) 10 days of food and medications in waterproof containers or Ziploc bags.
- 4) Bowls for food and water that do not spill easily.
- 5) Well-fitting collar/harness with ID tag and a good leash. Retractable leashes are NOT recommended due to safety concerns.
- 6) Small plastic bags for feces disposal. Cat owners need a 10-day supply of litter and a small compact container with lid for litter storage that can fit in the cat kennel to prevent spillage when not in use by the pet in the carrier.

ACTIONS TO TAKE DURING AN EVACUATION:

- Keep control of your pet at all times! Owners/Guardians will implement appropriate measures to prevent their pet from running at large while being exercised. Dogs will not be walked by children that are not capable of controlling the animal. Owners are required to provide all care to their pets during all phases of evacuation (walking, feeding, clean-up, etc.).
- Do not feed your pet for 2-4 hours prior to travel, but continue to give water.
- Place 1 copy of the Rabies Certificate, Health Certificate, and Animal Evacuation Card in a waterproof bag attached to the kennel and keep all other copies with your carry-on documents.
