General Information:

1. It is possible to bring a pet into Korea without meeting the importation requirements (microchip, rabies vaccination, and rabies antibody testing). HOWEVER, we strongly recommend completing all these requirements prior to travel to avoid costly fees and quarantine of the pet at your expense. Contact the All-Paws Boarding Facility in advance to ensure there is quarantine boarding space or reach out the Osan VTF if you have any questions.

 - Osan AB VTF – DSN 0505-784-6934; EMAIL usarmy.osan.65-med-bde.mbx.106th-clinic-staff@health.mil
2. Health certificates are valid for 30 days from the day of issue. The health certificate must be issued by an USDA accredited veterinarian. Errors on the health certificate will result in pet quarantine until the issue is resolved. Coming to Korea with no health certificate will result in your pet being sent back to the U.S. on the owner's expense.
3. All pets must be registered at the installation VTF within 10 days of arriving in Korea.
4. Only 2 pets (cats and dogs only) are authorized transport in the event of a non-combatant evacuation operation (NEO) in Korea. Every attempt will be made to transport pets in the event of NEO, but pets are not guaranteed transport.
5. Care for pets at military veterinary treatment facilities (VTF) is limited and primarily provides routine preventive medical and surgical care. Emergency care is not available at military VTFs, and civilian veterinary clinics are limited in some areas.

6. Not all housing areas allow pets. When assigned housing in pet restricted areas, service members that have brought pets have been required to find new owners/pet housing arrangements (including shipping them back to the states).
7. Customs clearance is required upon entry into Korea. Service members must present travel orders and pet documentation at the Customs desk to request the SOFA import tax waiver. Pets imported more than 6 months after initial entry will be assessed an import duty.
8. Pets shipped separate from the service member, or their family may incur additional costs (quarantine & customs fees paid in cash, Korean Currency of Won) when they travel as air cargo. Owners should discuss the details of these costs with the transportation broker prior to shipment. Shipping pets into the country as cargo separate from service member will occur more expenses and time; it takes a significantly longer time for them to arrive as cargo.

Common issues seen with pet importation:

1. FAVN issues including not having a FAVN performed, original FAVN results not available, FAVN performed at an unauthorized laboratory, or FAVN titer too low. Make sure your veterinarian is using an appropriate laboratory (DoD Laboratory, Auburn University or Kanas State University) and that you are planning far enough in advance that you can receive your FAVN results (6-8 weeks).
2. Improperly performed or incomplete health certificates. Make sure your health certificate is original (blue ink signature) AND endorsed by the USDA or Military Veterinarian.
3. NOTE: If your pet is quarantined, it will be at your expense. Your pet cannot leave the quarantine facility during this period (i.e. they CANNOT quarantine with you). Quarantine costs an average of $55-60 per day plus additional costs. Additional FAVN testing will cost a minimum of $250, and results can take up to one to three weeks to receive. Pets must be up to date on vaccines (rabies, DAPV (dogs), bordetella (dogs), FVRCP (cats)).

Pet Travel Requirements from USA/CONUS to Republic of Korea:

- Original complete USDA health certificate
 - Issued by an USDA accredited veterinarian and endorsed by a USDA APHIS Veterinary Medical Officer or Military/GS veterinarian.
 - All health certificates must include original signatures (in blue ink), no copies will be accepted.
- ISO Complaint Microchip (ISO 11784 or 11785)
 - Required for all dogs and cats regardless of age. If the microchip cannot be implanted prior to travel, it can be done after arrival in Korea but will result in quarantine of the animal at the owners' expense.
 - Pets who have a microchip that is not an ISO compliant microchip should have one placed prior to travel (list both microchips on the health certificate) OR the owner must transport a microchip reader.

- Ensure the microchip number(s) in your pet matches that on the health certificate, rabies certificate, and rabies antibody test.

- Rabies Vaccination

- Required for pets over 90 days old. Pets under 90 days old are exempt.
- Vaccination must be current and be accompanied by a valid rabies certificate issued by the administering veterinarian.
- Rabies certificates must have original signatures (in blue ink).

- Rabies Antibody Test (FAVN or RFFIT)

- Only required if the pet is over 90 days old. Pets under 90 days old are exempt.
- FAVN Test result must be >0.5 IU/mL and original test report must be presented. Results (to include date of results and laboratory) must be stated on the health certificate.
- The FAVN or RFFIT must be run by an internationally approved laboratory. See the QIA website for a list of approved laboratories. Only three authorized laboratories are the DOD FADL, Kansas State University, and Auburn University. DO NOT USE A DIFFERENT LABORATORY; THOSE RESULTS WILL BE REJECTED.
- FAVN results are only valid for two years and only if the rabies vaccine has not lapsed.
If the test cannot be run prior to travel, it can be done after arrival in Korea but will result in quarantine of the animal at the owners' expense as well as cost of the test.

Pet Travel Requirements from outside of US/CONUS area:

- Consider contacting the Korean APQA office directly or through your sponsor to confirm the travel documentation for your pet's travel.
- The same requirements above apply, except:
 - Original health certificate issued by a Military/GS veterinarian or official government veterinarian from the host nation (e.g. certificate and kennel stamp from the Japanese export veterinarian or an EU pet passport signed and stamped by a German government veterinarian) must be presented at time of entry.
 - Certain countries are considered "rabies-free" by QIA. Pets originating from these countries do not require a rabies vaccination or rabies antibody test IF they have been present in that country for the last six months.
 - Their health certificate must contain the following statement from the veterinarian: "I certify that this (these) animal(s) were kept for more than six months prior to shipment in rabies free countries/regions (provide the name of the country/region) designated in the ROK quarantine regulations."
 - Check the QIA website for list of countries. This list is subject to change based on current outbreak statuses of individual countries.
 - Animals traveling from Australia or Malaysia require additional documents relating to Hendra/Vipah virus. See the QIA website.
